A FEW PLAIN RULES AND HINTS.

N. B. Let the Singers or Choir always solicit the presence of the Clergyman at the Practice, even if he be not gifted with musical ability.

1. In all singing, let the music always give way to the meaning.
2. Attend to the punctuation.
3. First, learn the music thoroughly. It is a good plan for all the singers to sing over each part together, first the air, then the bass, then the alto and tenor.

4. In learning a chant, use the following method :

First, sol-fa it, to get the intervals correctly ; thus,

Sol do mi la la si do re si do then sing it with numbers, thus :

One two three four. One two three four five six.

5. When the music is known, sing it first loudly, then softly, then sing it with increase and diminution at the discretion of the leader.

6. In chanting, the time depends very much on the sense : Bars (which are often introduced into modern editions of chants) produce a musical accent or emphasis on the notes two and four, which ought to be avoided.

7. Next, read the passage to be (sung or) chanted, all together, (under the special direction of the Clergyman,) with close attention to the meaning, and spirit of the passage, until the voices become one voice.

8. Then you will be able to sing or chant both correctly and with good effect.

9. In practising, form a semi-circle, single or double, facing the conductor, thus: 1, the trebles. 2, the altos. 3, the tenors. 4, the basses.

10. Be careful to keep the lungs well filled. Take your breath frequently, but never audibly. In executing a lengthy passage which has no stops, let the singers take breath together, on some agreed emphatic word, but not audibly: and never in the middle of a word.

11. Avoid pausing at the end of the chant, unless the sense require it. Where there is a small stop between two verses, be very careful on this point. e. g.

For mine eyes have seen: thy salvation,
Which thou hast prepared, &c.

12. Where there is but one syllable on the reciting note, make the note short. e. g.

Ac - cording to thy word.
World - without end.
The - Father everlasting.

13. If the Choir be strong enough, and especially where the Congregation sing, the most desirable form in all church singing is, that they should sing alternately by sides. Then D in the following manual will mean the side, which is on the Clergyman's left hand, as he faces the Congregation in reading the Commandments. C those on his left. D.C. both together.

D.C. are the initials of two Latin words Decani, Cantoris.

In commencing the use of this manual, sing the Chants for the first week, for three or four Sundays consecutively till they are quite familiar. Then sing those for the second week. Then use these two on alternate Sundays. Then sing those for the third week. Then sing the three in turn; and so with the fourth.

(Invitation.)

D.C. O come, let us sing (1) un- . to . the . Lord : let us heartily rejoice (1) in the . strength . of . our . sal- . vation.

D. Let us come before his presence . with . thanks . giving : and show ourselves . glad . in . him . with . psalms.

(Reason of the Invitation.)

O. For the Lord is a . great . . . God : and a great . King . a- . bove . all . gods.

D. In his hand are all the corners . of . the . earth : and the strength of the . hills . is . his . . . also.

C. The sea is his, . and . he . made it : and his hands (1) pre- . pa- . red . the . dry . land.

(Invitation and reason repeated.)

D. O come, let us worship, . and . fall . down : and kneel be- . fore . the . Lord . our . Maker.

C. For he is the . Lord, . our . God : and we are the people of his pasture, . and . the . sheep . of his . hand.

(Caution. See Ecclesiastes, chap. 7. vers. 1. 2.)

D. To-day if ye will hear his voice, (2) harden . not . your . hearts : as in the provocation, (2) and as in the day of tempt- . a- . tion . (3) in . the . wilderness : (4)

C. When your fathers . tempt . ed . me : proved . me, . and . saw . my . works.

D. Forty years long was I grieved (3) with this gene- . ration, . (2) and . said : It is a people that do err in their hearts, (2) for they . have . not . known . my . ways.

C. Unto whom I swear . in . my . wrath : that they should not . enter . in- . to . my . rest.

APPENDIX.

The following hints may be useful in Psalm and Hymn singing.

1. Select the tune according to the character of the psalm or hymn—a lively tune for a song of praise, e. g. Psalm 98. ; a more solemn tune (without any drawling,) for a weightier subject, e. g. Psalm 100 or 150. ;
a plaintive tune to a penitential psalm, e. g. Psalm 51, or Psalm 90.

2. If such psalms at the 51st and 67th be sung to the same tune
(which the metre admits), the effect will be some thing worse than absurd.

3. Breathing and punctuation are as necessary to observe here, as in chanting, thus :

Let every creature (breathe secretly) jointly bless (breathe secretly)

The mighty Lord : (stop) and thou my heart (breathe secretly)

With grateful joy (breathe secretly) thy thanks express, &c.

(Not as, alas ! one sometimes hears, Let every crea- (breath) ture jointly bless (stop) the mighty Lord (no stop beyond taking breath), and thou my heart (stop), &c., &c.)

4. Vowels are sounds : consonants produce distinctness, but they stop the sound.

5. The letter s especially produces a most unpleasant sensation, if the vowel preceding be not fully sounded. e. g.

Our sins, though numberless in vain
To stop thy flowing mercy try ;
Whilst Thou o'erlook'st the guilty stain,
And washest out the crimson dye.

Oh ! let thy table honour'd be,
And furnish'd well with joyful guests !
And may each soul salvation see,
That here its sacred pledges tastes.

Sing these verses pronouncing the vowels or diphthongs in the syllables italicised, first briefly, and then fully, and note the difference.

6. In singing, a fulness and roundness of the vowel is often desirable, which in mere reading would be quite out of character.

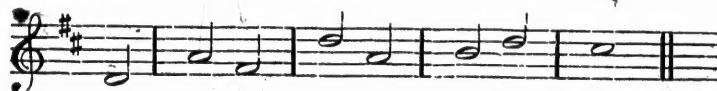

7. Practice the music in strict time, a little faster than it ought to be sung.

8. Be careful not to tail the notes into one another, sing so :

every note clear and distinct.

9. Let the Leader count the time. If the tune drags, let the whole of the singers once or twice sing and count together, thus :

Two one two, one two, one two, one two.

Three, one two three, one two three, one two three, one two.
